Cluj International Airport hosts the third edition of Aviation-Event 2024 CLJ

The third edition of Aviation-Event took place in Cluj-Napoca, Romania, hosted by Cluj International Airport, marking a significant milestone in the regional aviation sector. Situated in the vibrant European city often referred to as the 'Heart of Transylvania', Cluj-Napoca has played a pivotal role in shaping the historical narrative and driving forward the economic prosperity of the surrounding region. Its multicultural ambiance serves as a testament to centuries of cross-cultural exchange, and its strategic location has positioned it as a hub for academic, cultural, and business activities.

By assembling a diverse ensemble of industry professionals, the event created an invaluable platform for in-depth discussions regarding the future trajectory of aviation. Through the convergence of experts, innovators, and decision-makers from various sectors within the industry, the conference facilitated dialogue, collaboration, and progress.

Panel discussions and focused sessions throughout the day delved into the intricate challenges and promising opportunities that characterize the aviation landscape. Participants engaged in a robust exchange of insights, drawing from their wealth of experience and expertise to address pressing issues facing the industry.

Throughout the one-day conference, panel discussions and targeted sessions looked into key challenges and opportunities facing the aviation industry. Participants exchanged valuable insights and forged connections that not only benefited them individually but also enriched the broader aviation community. This collaborative exchange of ideas and expertise has undoubtedly contributed to advancing the collective goals of the aviation sector.

PhD. Eng. David Ciceo, CEO, Cluj International Airport stated

"As we managed to successfully close the 3rd edition of Aviation-Event CLJ 2024, I extend my gratitude to each of the speakers and participants for their invaluable contribution and their active participation."

"During this edition of the conference, we have engaged in insightful discussions, exchanged valuable insights, and forged meaningful connections. The expertise and dedication of the present speakers and the valuable discussion during the panels and sessions of Aviation-Event 2024 CLJ have enriched our collective understanding of the challenges and opportunities facing the aviation industry."

"Drawing participants from over 20 countries and gathering attention from journalists across diverse nations, the event has already established itself as a highly anticipated gathering, widely promoted throughout Europe."

"The event has evolved into a tradition of great importance, not only for civil aviation in Romania but also for Cluj International Airport and the broader European aviation community. It serves as an invaluable networking platform, facilitating exchanges of ideas, experiences, and innovative solutions. The conference's timely and relevant themes resonate with all participants, offering valuable insights to enhance our operations and navigate the evolving aviation landscape."

Cluj International Airport has exceeded the 3 million passengers' milestone annually and is continuously expanding its operations in order to accommodate the increasing demand of the full economic development region. Its strategic location in the heart of Transylvania makes it a popular destination for both business and leisure travellers. Also, Cluj International Airport leveraged its catchment area and achieved remarkable growth in passenger traffic, making it Romania's airport with the most significant growth in this regard. Thanks to its commitment to excellence, Cluj International Airport has established itself as a model of good practices in the aviation market.

Impressions of Press Conference

Moderator of the day

Peter Baumgartner, Former CEO of Etihad Airways and Chairman of Bluearbre Ltd., warmly welcomed all participants to the 3rd edition of the Cluj Aviation-Event. He recalled the inaugural event in 2022, highlighting how the topics discussed then paved the way for ongoing open discussions on critical aviation issues of interest to professionals in the field.

Welcome Speeches

Răzvan Ciorte, Deputy Governor, Cluj County; István Vákár, Vice President, Cluj County; Dan Tarcea, Vice Mayor, Cluj-Napoca City; and Viorel Federiga, President of the Administration Board, Cluj International Airport, extended a warm welcome to participants at the 3rd edition of Aviation-Event Cluj in 2024. They highlighted the continuous growth and expansion of Cluj International Airport, emphasizing its significant benefits for the community and its pivotal role as a leading regional airport. They also noted the event's evolution since its inception, underscoring its role in convening global aviation professionals to discuss critical industry issues.

Opening Keynote

David Ciceo, CEO, Cluj International Airport

David Ciceo, CEO, Cluj International Airport, opened the event with a keynote address, extending a warm welcome to all participants. He delved into the post-pandemic recovery of Romanian aviation, highlighting the impressive resurgence of eastern European airports, particularly those in Romania. David Ciceo discussed the remarkable growth of air traffic in Romania over the past 25 years, especially since its EU accession in 2007, and the significant investments made in recent years to fuel this growth. He emphasized the upcoming milestone of Romania's entry into the Schengen area on 31 March 2024, and its positive impact on air traffic. David Ciceo also showcased CLJ airport's achievements, including reaching 3.2 million passengers in 2023, and outlined future plans for capacity expansion and sustainability, aiming for 7 million passengers by 2024 and achieving net-zero emissions by 2050. He acknowledged the challenges posed by these ambitious goals and ongoing expansion efforts.

Moderated Keynote | Robert Carey, President, Wizz Air, and Rüdiger Kiani-Kreß, Journalist, WirtschaftsWoche

Robert Carey, President, Wizz Air

Robert Carey, President, Wizz Air, and Rüdiger Kiani-Kreß, Journalist, WirtschaftsWoche, engaged in a keynote discussion highlighting the pivotal role of Wizz Air in the aviation market as a pioneer of its unique business model. Robert Carey emphasized the significance of low-cost travel in expanding air travel globally, especially evident in the rapid post-pandemic recovery. He underscored Wizz Air's success, attributing it to a strategy centered around openness, transparency, and fairness toward both staff and passengers. The conversation delved into the challenges posed by current supply chain issues and their impact on air travel. Despite these hurdles, Robert Carey emphasized Wizz Air's ability to ensure continuous growth and profitability by prioritizing long-term sustainability over short-term gains. He provided insights into Wizz Air's financial performance over the past year as an example. The discussion concluded by emphasizing that Wizz Air's enduring growth is fuelled by its business model, which prioritizes reliability and efficiency. This commitment drives the airline to overcome challenges and continually improve its service for the benefit of its customers.

An airline that has grown tremendously in recent years – and is certainly not resting on its laurels. A case study in a disruptive business model that is challenging accepted standards and democratizing flying with a product that makes air travel accessible to so many – while truly shifting market share.
Robert Carey, President of Wizz Air, made such a strong appearance at Aviation-Event 2024 CLJ – interesting, intelligent and personable. It was a pleasure and honor to have him.

Some beautiful photos & memories from the Aviation-Event - Hub for the industry CLJ 2024 - Gala Dinner.
Indeed the evening became even more special for me...by having the surprise and the honor to receive an #award for my activity dedicated to the #aviation industry.
The award is even more special & close to my heart because it was received in March, the month dedicated to all the amazing women in the world, but also because it was received in my home country - Romania.
This award definitely makes me even more dedicated to this industry, and I share it with all women in aviation, with all professional who work with passion and dedication to growth & make this industry even stronger, as well as with my country and a special tourist and business destination - Cluj - the gateway to Transylvania.
Thank you @aviationeventmedia for such a great surprise and for a wonderful cooperation and also many thanks to the entire team of Aeroportul International Avram Iancu Cluj for hosting a very successful High Level Conference.
