

Sofia International Airport will be the host of the international aviation conference:

Aviation-Event 2024 SOF

Sofia, 20 February 2024

Sofia International Airport along with Aviation-Event is proud to announce once again the much-anticipated Aviation-Event 2024 SOF conference, scheduled for 29 November 2024, in Sofia, Bulgaria. This year's conference will spotlight the theme "Navigating the Green Skies: Integrating Sustainable Aviation and Digital Transformation in Airport Operations." This year's conference will deep dive into topics of sustainable aviation and will reveal cutting-edge eco-friendly technologies, renewable energy solutions, and strategies for reducing the carbon footprint in the aviation industry. Moderated discussions will navigate into the realm of digital transformation in airport operations, MRO industry, exploring the forefront of smart technologies, data analytics, and AI to optimize both airport management and security.

Additionally, panel talks and keynotes will address challenges and seize opportunities in airport capacity and expansion, focusing on sustainable infrastructure development to meet the ever-growing demands of air travel.

The conference promises a dynamic platform for industry leaders, experts, and stakeholders to collaborate, share insights, and shape the future of aviation. For more information and to secure attendance, please visit www.aviation-event.com.
